RE-ROOFING BARNS.

How Capacity of a Structure May Be Nearly Doubled Without Lengthening the Posts.

I send you a rough plan showing a way we have here of re-roofling old barns; indeed nearly all new barns are built with the same kind of roof. The capacity of the barn is nearly doubled without lengthening the posts. Eac's pair of rafters is made of four pieces of oak, 255, and of equal length, put together as repre-

pieces of board 12 or 14 inches wide at the widest point, spiked or nailed on each side of the joint in the rafters. A piece same thickness as rafters should be fitted in between these boards, filling space formed by the angle in the rafters and all firmly nailed together. C is a piece of board | track can be hung on these. The ridge of barn should be one half as many feet above plates as the barn is in width. The fore of the roof if properly made, hundred dollars. Rafters two feet from centers, Kafters put together as described would one of the strongest roofs made.- H. E. Taber, in Ohio Farmer.

GROWING WOOD PULP.

An Off-Hand Suggestion Which Seems to Be Worthy of Serious Thought and Consideration.

A few days ago I cut a silver popand which had grown nearly is inches in diameter a foot above the ground and probably contains a cord of work The tree became a nuisance where it stood, and so it had to come down Majesty" or grope in the peckets of When a guest refuses dessert, the applaus that it made me think of the possibility wour mind for a long-winded phrase, of the children at the table is sincere, though ties of growing such trees for commerused for paper-making. How many tears will it take at the present rate of using the native poplars for this purpose alone before the natural supply will be exhausted? Possibly we my he able to find other materials for paper-making, such as cornstalk. etc., but I would feel pretty safe to predict a ready sale of all poplar wood that one could grow for the next too. years. I so not know what price pa per-makers have to pay a cord for the soud they use. Put think how quick! one could produce a hig for of popula would. The tree grows marvelous fast. Instem years from punning you would have quite a good forest, and even before that time much of th wood could be utilized for various pur poses, as the trees could be set quite thickly at the start and gradually thinned out. Trees can be chought progared, too. I only offer this as a suggestion. Farm and Eireside.

PERMANENT PASTURES.

To herp Them in Good Condition b n Problem That Has Puzzted Many Parmers.

Proposity the easiest way to keep a permanent pasture in good comittion to stock it hard enough to that the grass will be enten before it throws up a seed-stock or becomes hard and woody, and then give exten feed at the barn so that the animals will return at least as much fertility to the soil as the grass takes from it. Of course manure or fertilizer may be earried out, and spread on the pasture, but that costs money and many farmers are often at a loss to obtain fertilizing element enough for their mowing lands and cultivated fields. If they buy feed to se in summer when eattle are in the pasture, they hope to and usually de get enough in the way of growth, faor milk production to pay for it, and look upon the increased quantity and extra quality of the manure heap as an extra profit. In this matter of overstocking the pasture it is best done and produces best results where there are two pastures, so that the animals can be changed from one to the other about once a week, or a often as the feed is eaten down mooth. This helps to prevent then, from gnawing to closely as to destray the roots, which they may do in some favorite spot if they are kept too long in one pasture. Midland

How to Fight Heg Lice. H. V. Tellor, in his "Diseases of Live Stock," says: There disgusting para sites abound on El-fed and half-sick hogs. Indeed, their presence may almost be said to be a right that the ani mal is out of condition. It is not sufficient therefore to destroy the lice with an insecticide; if the cure is expected to be permanent, the animal must be kept clear, well-fed, and supported with tonics, such as sulphate of iron, if occasion demands it, As a safe and efficient cintment to kill lice we may use scotch souff. rubbed up with lard or the following: Stavezacre seeds four ounces, white hellebore one ounce, water one gallon. We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of St. Mary's Academy which appears in another column of this paper. The 46th year opens September 4th, 1900. We do not need to expatiate upon the scholastic advantages of St. Mary's for the catalogue of the school shows the scope of work included in its curriculum, which is of the same high standard as that of Vassar and Bryn Mawr, and is carried out faithfully in the class rooms. We simply emphasize the spirit of carnest devotion which makes every teacher at St. Mary's loyally strive to develop each young girl attendant The German emperor has expressed a desire to furnish three sea pieces, painted by himself, for the decoration of painted by himself, for the decoration of the companion of the

When a preparation has an advertised reputation that is world-wide, it means that preparation is meritorious. If you go into a store to buy an article that has achieved universal popularity like Cascarets Candy Cathartic for example, you feel it has the endorsement of the world. The judgment of the people is infallible because it is impersonal. The retailer who wants to sell you "something else" in place of the article you ask for, has an ax to grind. Don't it stand to reason? He's trying to sell something that is not what he represents it to be. Why? Because he expects to derive an extra profit our of your credulity. Don't you see through his little game? The man who will try to sell you a substitute for Cascarets is a fraud. Beware of him! He is trying to steal the honestly earned benefits of a reputation which another business man has paid for, and if his conscience will allow him to squipment in the class rooms, beloratories and study rooms, every care in the matter of food and clothing, and exceptional excellence of climatic conditions—all of these features are found at St. Mary's, in the perfection of development only to be obtained by the consecration of devoted lives to educational Christian work, in a spot favored by the Lord.—The Fine Arts Journal.

Itching Burning Scaly Blotchy Humors

Instantly Relieved and Speedily Cured by

Tutichra

The itching and burning I suffered in my feet and limbs for three years were terrible. At night they were worse and would keep me awake a greater part of the night. I consulted doctor after doctor, as I was traveling on the road most of my time, also one of our city doctors. M doctors knew what the trouble was. I got a lot of the different samples of the medicines I had been using. I found them of so many different kinds that I concluded I would have to go to a Cincinnati hospital before I would get relief. I had frequently been urged to try CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I had no faith in them. My wife finally prevailed upon me to try them. Presto! What a change! I am now cured, and it is a permanent cure. I feel like kicking some doctor or myself for suffering three years when could have used CUTICURA remedies. H. JENKINS, Middleboro, Ky.
